With the exception of three patients recently admitted the inmates are enjoying good health physically. Several of the chronic insane are exhibiting satisfactory signs of improvement. The old residents, who comprise about three-quarters of the whole number, are, with few exceptions, hopeless dements.

A system of improvements in the buildings and grounds, and also in the management of the institution generally, was instituted at the beginning of the quarter.

The mauka building, which is designated as the "quiet ward," has been thoroughly repaired, cleaned and painted. All the inner cells, with their numerous inhabitants of unmentionable species, have been removed; thus giving a large, open, light and airy hall for a sleeping apartment, and another large room or hall for dining and reading tables. Two large tables have been placed in this hall, one for dining, the other for reading. Comfortable chairs are also furnished for the accommodation of all the patients. Such furniture was previously unknown in this Asylum. Some reading matter and games have been placed on the reading table. We are endeavoring to make this apartment as pleasant and attractive as possible.

I would suggest to Your Excellency that the public be invited to contribute illustrated papers and magazines which they may have to spare, and also cheap highly colored pictures for the walls. The insane are often like children in their admiration for gaudy colors. Similar conveniences have also been provided, as far as possible, for the less quiet and orderly patients who have heretofore occupied the airing court and dined a la swine. Dining tables and benches have been placed in a comfortable room, recently erected for them. With few exceptions, they now sit at table, remove their hats and dine in quite a civilized manner.

This class of patients is no longer locked in their cells at night, or confined in the court by day.

They manifestly appreciate their newly accorded privileges, and are much less troublesome than formerly. The only punishment allowed is to lock a patient in a room by himself for a few hours. This has the desired effect and is no great hardship. It is not so much the severity of the punishment as the certainty of it, which has a corrective effect on patients when disposed to be turbulent or noisy.

It is seldom that even this restraint is necessary to keep our people reasonably quiet and orderly.

The old building which stood at the entrance of the Asylum grounds, has been removed to give place to a new cottage, which is intended as a residence for the Assistant Superintendent and also an office and dispensary for the use of the Medical Superintendent.

The old building, which is used for the worst dements, has been made perfectly tidy, but it is hopelessly beyond repair.

The city water being laid on in the Asylum grounds, a comfortable bath room has been erected for the female patients. Another is being erected for the males.

The keepers, under the excellent management of Mr. Wm. Auld, Assistant Superintendent, have entered cheerfully into the spirit of improvement in the care of their charges and, with one exception, have been temperate and faithful in the discharge of their duties.

One keeper came on duty under the influence of liquor. He was promptly and permanently discharged.

Mrs. Auld, the first Matron of the institution, was appointed in October
